Thanks, Julia.

No, that's exactly where things stand – i.e. the last I heard from OCSPP late this AM. Waiting for an update as of this writing.

That one is with OCSPP. I don't think we'll get a response today. Do you want me to call him and see if his deadline can be extended?

Hello Robert: I am a former USA Today journalist reporting for the Connecticut Health Investigative Team, a journalism foundation that feeds stories to major newspapers. I am working on a story about glyphosate residues on foods. Please answer the following questions by tomorrow.

Thank you.

- 1) Does EPA regard glyphosate as a probable carcinogen? Please explain.
- 2) Should farmers and homeowners who apply glyphosate have concerns about their health?
- 3) Should the public and homeowners have concerns about health effects of glyphosate on lawns and other areas to which it is applied?
- 4) What does EPA think of WHO IARC's determination that glyphosate is a probable carcinogen?

Thank you!
